Develop your talent through study at EIFM

We live in a time of constant change. As we venture into this unstable reality, we will have to trust even more not only our core values and sound judgment, but also our ability to challenge the status quo. Creativity will be crucial to successfully navigating the present and the future, enabling us to meet the challenges that lie ahead.

The new leader must be able to combine two strands: on the one hand, the highest degree of professionalism and self-motivation to constantly strive for excellence and, as a result, personal and professional fulfilment; on the other, the generosity with which all these efforts will be devoted to serving others, society and the world. If you consider yourself a challenging and non-conformist person who wants to improve and move forward, and who feels that you have much more to give to make a real and lasting impact, then you are the ideal student for one of our executive courses.

“EIFM is the only school I applied to because not only is it a prestigious world-class institution with world-class faculty, but it is focused on collaboration and community, a key aspect that sets it apart from other world-class universities. It is taught by practitioners who provide practical experience outside the academic world; its focus brings it more in line with the professional world of workers and managers, and which are considered part of an ongoing process of lifelong learning.”

MODULES

APPLYING STRATEGIC FINANCIAL INSIGHT

In this course, you will learn to make informed strategic decisions regarding capital structure, use capital markets to achieve the most profitable results, balance profit, growth and control in a dynamic environment, and implement restructuring strategies. Not to be left out are the financial reports, which you will learn not only to understand, but also to draw implications and expectations from them, which will help you make other important financial decisions.

OPTIMAL FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT AND CONTROL SYSTEMS

Running a business means managing its financial resources, regardless of your job title. Your ability to make smart decisions on projects depends on your understanding of timelines and cash flow calculations to track cash flows and payments, the value of securities and investments, and how to determine overall cost effectiveness. To do this, you need a good understanding of a range of financial concepts. This course will introduce you to these concepts, and you will leave with the tools to ensure that your company has the best chance of project success by managing its financial resources wisely.

CORPORATE FINANCE AND ITS MANAGEMENT

In this section we describe the theory and practice of corporate finance. The aim is to provide a conceptual foundation and to provide a framework for corporate investment and financing decisions. The content will be very useful for aspiring investment analysts, financial managers, corporate finance professionals and future CFOs. The course deals with understanding the major financial decisions faced by corporate managers and what corporate finance professionals do and why. We will combine theory with practice to ultimately understand what corporate finance professionals should be doing to increase company value and shareholder wealth. Key topics include time value of money and interest rates, project and company valuation, project analysis, capital budgeting, capital structure decisions, risk-return relationships, financial analysis, etc.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT DECISIONS

The key to the financial success of any business is selecting the right projects to be delivered at the right time, at the right cost and with the right funding structure. Your role as a manager involves being involved in deciding which projects make sense for the company and are likely to make a profit. To do this, you need to understand concepts such as net present value, internal rate of return, payback period, discounted payback period, profitability index and equivalent annual cost. Non-financial managers need to know the workings of each of these concepts in order to offer valuable information and expertise, and you will learn this in this course.

IMPROVING TEAMWORK

The course will make you a more effective leader through greater financial acumen. You'll learn how to communicate effectively about finance with leaders from all functional areas and engage in more productive discussions with finance professionals in your organization where you'll be able to ask the right questions. At the same time, you'll learn tools and methods to problem-solve with non-finance colleagues and present information in a way that supports their decision-making.
